Questions and Answers

1. What is a Repulsion Zone?

- It's a band of magnetism that forces the dimensions away from each other, and exists between each Harmonic Universe (HU).

2. What characteristic of Harmonic Universes means that those focused in a particular Harmonic Universe are not able to be aware of what happens in others?

- Harmonic Universes (and dimensions within them) each have a different rate of pulsation of particles. They represent different time cycles. The first Harmonic Universe is the Tauren Time Cycle, and it's the slowest moving, slowest pulsating of the 5 HUs.

3. What is the significance of the 3rd Harmonic Universe in relation to our incarnation within the Time Matrix, and the Ascension process?

- It is both the point at which we passed through in order to expand our consciousness into the Time Matrix, and the point through which we will leave it. We progress from the slowest moving time cycle, and Harmonic Universe, to the highest/fastest (HU 5, containing the 15th dimension). Then we slow our pulsation speed down to go back through the center in Harmonic Universe 3, which contains the 8th dimension.

4. How many Harmonic Universes are there in this Time Matrix?

- There are 5, each composed of three dimensions.

5. What is the relationship between Earth and Tara? Where is Tara?

- Earth (and our solar system as we know it) originally came from Tara, which is a planet that exists within the 2nd Harmonic Universe, in the Oundonc Time Cycle. About 550 million years ago (MYA) part of Tara dismantled itself in energetic terms. It fell in vibration, and in speed, and some of its particles began to pulsate slower. As a result, it ended up in Harmonic Universe 1. The fragments of Tara became our planet and solar system. There were originally 12 planets (the sun is also considered a planet). One of the planets imploded a long time ago (Maldek). And there is one we haven't discovered yet (Nibiru).

6. Who are the Turaneusiam? How were they created?

- About 560 million years ago there was a race of beings seeded on Tara called the Turaneusiam. They were created by splicing together the "best of the best" of the gene code of all the other types of beings that existed in all the other systems and Harmonic Universes. The purpose was to create a prototype that could embody the consciousness of 12 of the 15 dimensions. They were viewed as God Beings (godlings) and created with the potential to become “Creator gods,” in the Christiac sense of the term. They were created to be Guardians for the planet Tara. They were responsible for making sure the energy balance of the whole planetary system stayed intact. They were responsible for creating harmonious relationships with other galaxies and planets of the 2nd Harmonic Universe. Because the Turaneusiam had the genetic codes of many different species, they had the capacity to identify with many different species, and so become mediators within the large intergalactic ET community in HU 2.

7. What happened on Tara that led to part of it breaking off and de-evolving?

- Certain groups from other interplanetary systems that didn't want to be involved in the original Turaneusiam experiment decided to try and take it in their own direction. So they interbred with some of the Turaneusiam and distorted the original gene code. This led to a loss of clarity of consciousness. It affected their (Turaneusiam) ability to identify as strongly with the God-presence, and the harmonious operations of the universe, as they had before.

Some of these who had interbred evolved into a species called the Atlanians. They came to have problems with what we know here as the ego. They saw themselves as very powerful, and they saw power not as something to be used just in love and service to the universe, to the Christos, but against other beings. A group of them, called the Templar Solar Initiates, who were appointed as Guardian Keepers of certain of the energy dynamics of the planet Tara, abused the position entrusted to them in such a way that they caused implosions, then explosions, within Tara's energetic grid. They used crystalline keylontic technologies in such a way that part of Tara's grid broke off. Its energetic form dismantled, which is the opposite of evolution. It moved backwards, digressing into something less than what it was, instead of evolving to what it was supposed to become.

8. What was the Turaneusiam 2 experiment and what situation was it developed to help?

- When part of the Taran grids imploded and fell, the souls of the people who were on that portion of Tara exploded and disintegrated. Their bodies were killed. And because they were part of an explosion, the energy structures, the Partiki Grids of their bodies and consciousness, were also ripped apart. Their oscillation rate dropped, and they ended up here in Harmonic Universe 1, even though they were originally from HU 2.

If at this point they were “left to their own devices,” they would have become part of the Unified Field of energy within dimensions 1, 2 and 3. They would thus have been the substance out of which other species would evolve, rather than retaining their own sentient identity as Turaneusiam.

So, to preserve the Turaneusiam, and to salvage those souls instead of their having to “begin again,” the “Turaneusiam 2” experiment was begun.

The Turaneusiam 2 were the 12 tribes of the Human Race, which is us. We were created from the Turaneusiam 1 genetic code. The 12 strand of the T1 was taken and broken into 12 different pieces, and then polarized to make 2 strands. It created 12 different tribes of beings that all came out of the one primary race from HU 2. This polarization is what gives us gender as we know it. You have 12 tribes, each with one strand of DNA; you polarize the DNA, and you have 2 genders operating through each of the 12 tribes.

9. Why was there opposition to the creation of the T2 experiment?

- When Earth had stabilized itself to the point where it could sustain life, about 250 MYA, it became a valuable piece of “real estate” to some of the beings in the 2nd HU. These beings had initially cooperated in the creation of the Turaneusiam, but some races did not want the Turaneusiam reseeded because they believed the genetic strain did not work and they wanted the territory of Earth for their own experiments. Not all of the races who contributed genetic material to the original Turaneusiam were of this mindset. The Elohim and the Syrians were strongly supportive of reseeded, and they worked through the Sirian Councils to bring this possibility about. And a war broke out between those supporting this and those not (the Electric Wars).

10. What was the purpose of the 12 tribes?

- The purpose was to evolve over a long period of time in the 1st Harmonic Universe. To reassemble slowly, through the gene pool and the progression of races and evolution, to grow back into the 12 strand prototype that we originally came out of. This was supposed to be a slow process, millions of years of evolution.

But we were messed with by the Annunaki, who decided they would rather use us as slave labor. The Elohim and the Annunaki had a falling out. The Elohim tried to protect us, but they didn’t want us to evolve too quickly, either, because they didn’t want to create another mess like what had happened in HU 2.

11. What did the Elohim do when we started to evolve too quickly, and put together a lot of the separated gene codes that were in the original 12 tribes?

- They took out key elements in our operating DNA that allowed other codes to plug in. They put them in the nucleus of our cells, in what scientists call “junk DNA.” That’s our missing memory—its not “missing,” just unplugged. The Elohim were the primary force behind this distortion, and its purpose was to slow down our evolutionary progression. They did this because they were very concerned, as certain parts of the T2 went into animal digression—they interbred with animals and distorted the genetic code again. The Elohim did not want to see those code distortions added back into the 12 strand prototype we were rebuilding, as it could possibly create some very powerful monster. So the “unplugging” was to try and rebalance and purify the genetic strain again.

The Elohim were not especially fair in the way they applied this, however. They favored the tribes with greater amounts of the Lyran strain in them. The Lyrans were the Founders, and the Elohim were close to them. However, the Elohim did succeed in keeping the gene code alive when we almost digressed to the point of negating ourselves again. And while our evolution was repressed to some degree, it was done out of protection for the rest of the Universe, basically.

12. What were the Root Races and the Cloistered Races?

- The 12 tribes were broken down into the 7 Root Races. They did not all appear at the same time on the planet. Each having a higher genetic code would follow on from the one before, until the 7th was able to come, which would be able to embody the full 12 strands of DNA.

There were 7 Root Races and 5 Cloister Races. The Cloister races had the Silicate Matrix, the full 12 strand DNA pattern. At any time when these 7 Root Races were evolving, there would be at least 1 Cloister Race present that kept alive in the gene pool the 12 strand DNA pattern. The Cloister Races were the Guardians.

Vocabulary

1. Tara:

A planet that was formed in the second Harmonic Universe about 560 trillion years ago. [Note: Considering Ash’s more recently published material, her stating in this class that Tara was created 560 trillion years ago is probably incorrect. She may have meant to say Tara was created about 560 billion years ago.]

2. Turaneusiam:

A race of beings seeded on Tara 560 million years ago.

3. Elohim:

They appear in our Biblical stories. They are beings of an extraterrestrial nature that came out of the HU 3 Lyran founders. They were one of the first forms created in HU 2 by the Lyran Founders, and they are very godlike even compared to the Turaneusiam.

4. Lyran:

Nonphysical beings from Lyra.

5. Drakon:

A species from the Vega star system who are stationed in HU 1 and HU 2.

6. Electric Wars:

A war over the Earth territory about 250 million years ago. The Sirian and Elohim fought in favor of reseeded the Earth with the Turaneusiam species.

7. Turaneusiam 2 race:

A race consisting of 12 tribes, created out of the first Turaneusiam race.

8. Silicate matrix:

12 strand DNA pattern.

Attitudes & Responsibilities of Mastery

Attitude of Mastery #7

ACCOUNTABILITY — Being in a state of TRUTH with the ALL-ONE-ness.

Responsibility of Mastery #7

APPRECIATION: Our present society continually teaches us to "want more," "need more," "be more," "do more" etc. We are constantly influenced to perceive what is lacking in order to motivate us to buy more, work more, pay more taxes and be "good little consumer sheep." Very rarely do we stop to think about all that we DO have, beginning with the gift of Life and mental free will choice. Through this disoriented perceptual filter we can cultivate a “full-blown” mutation of mental consciousness. In this mutated consciousness, we begin to believe that "we are entitled," that "someone OWES us" (GOD, the Universe, our parents, spouse, children, employer, government, etc....). Once we fall into this "You OWE me" mind trap, we set ourselves up for continuing self-created frustration, as we place unrealistic and untrue expectations upon life, others and ourselves. We can also often get mighty angry or hurt when we find the universe doesn't conform to our imagined "pictures." No one OWES us anything! If we feel we are "owed," then we are entertaining LACK CONSCIOUSNESS and a void within the Self is being recognized. If we give to another in order to RECEIVE for ourselves (such as do banks, and often parents, spouses or lovers), and the other does not "pay back" what we expected to receive, we may feel cheated, "taken advantage of," or "owed." In fact, these situations often emerge in our lives as lessons to teach us that giving should be done for the GIVING ALONE, and not for the expected return. If we give what we desire to give, for the joy of giving, we do not feel owed. If we live for the joy of living, without forcing our demands or expectations upon life, we will not feel that "life has short changed us!" It matters not what your neighbor possesses, because in comparing ourselves to each other to see how we "measure up" to each other, we are in effect, continually being distracted from seeing and utilizing the blessings that are our own. If we can work to cultivate the ability to APPRECIATE even the smallest of gifts, blessings and gestures, we will begin to create a life that is at least “half full” instead of “half empty.” In terms of universal physics, what you focus your attention upon expands, what you resist persists and what you do not give the energy of appreciation to will eventually de-manifest right out of your experience. When you approach the world through the chosen filter of genuine GIVING, you are in effect, being an “electrical transmitter,” sending energy out to the world around you. When you release electrical energy in this way, you become more “magnetic,” as the sending out of energy creates magnetic vortices within the Diodic Grid of your Kathara anatomy. The "magnetized" Diodic points then draw in more universal energy supply, at a higher frequency and quality than the expressed energy, to re-fill the energy void created by the "giving." When you approach the world with the attitude of "getting," this natural physics process becomes inverted. The more you try to "pull" energy from the outside world, the more your energy becomes "stuck" in the Diodic Grid as miasms. The miasms progressively reduce the quantity and lower the frequency of the natural energies you can internally draw from the universal supply. Giving, even in its simplest form of giving appreciation, keeps the natural energy flow moving. Whatever you give out will return to you amplified. This also works in reverse, however, and giving out a bad attitude of ego, arrogance and “garbage” will cause more of the same to flow your way. Appreciate what you have. LOVE IT, find perspectives through which the joy of it can be known, and know that in the act of genuine appreciation itself, you will set loose the powers of manifesting more of what you desire and less of the illusion of lack. The "Universe Owes Me" mind trip is one of the most powerful self-sabotage games in the world. Trade it in for consistent appreciation and your world will progressively expand to hold the reality of the things you most desire. If you feel put upon by the world, and resentful for having your desires unmet, YOU OWE YOURSELF SOMETHING! You owe yourself a greater understanding of the nature of creation and better use of your personal power within the life creation game. SAY THANK YOU to the GOD SOURCE more often...to help yourself remember what things you have to appreciate, and many more of the kind will be sent along your way.
